Be Stylish

Stylist and fashionista, Pernia Quershi's new book Be Stylish encourages women to embrace and flaunt their fashionable side. The book that released last month, serves as a style Bible, throwing light on what is chic and what is not, accessorising and accenting outfits to create the perfect look. Along with encouraging women to know their bodies before dressing, the book also has a compilation of Quershi's list on the best stores in India. Sonam Kapoor, one of India's most stylish actresses lends her voice to the book, talking about Pernia's style, design aesthetic and all things fashion.

The Wolf of Wall Street

You know you are in for a cinematic treat when a Martin Scorsese film is underway. The award-winning director is all set to release his new film titled The Wolf of Wall Street with a glittering star cast. The biopic stars Leonardo DiCaprio as Jordan Belfort, a notorious New York City stockbroker who refuses to participate in a large securities fraud scam. The movie traces his rise and fall from grace in the stock market industry and copes with his turbulent life with drug and alcohol addiction that finally led to the downfall of his illustrious career. The film also stars Matthew McConaughey as Mark Hanna, an early mentor to Belfort. The Wolf of Wall Street is set to release this month.

Martin Eder's Monsters of Silence

Monsters of Silence, an art show by renowned German artist, Martin Eder will be held at Galerie Isa in Mumbai for the first time this month. Eder's works stems from the idyllic countryside of Augsburg, where he was born and raised. He describes his work and inspiration to be a mix of both the dark and the beautiful. A closer look at Eder's work will acquaint viewers with the true concept of each piece. On the surface, the paintings have a dreamy and luxurious quality, but a closer look reveals that there is more than what meets the eye. Eder's work makes his audience think about what lies beyond the canvas.
